The Wait

after Lawrence Ferlinghetti

Now that's how waiting for the hell to stop again. Waiting for the heaven to begin, the hell to end like a lot of things. It has no choice.

I'm waiting for the evening and I know to wait for morning and I'm waiting for the night to close. I'm waiting for the dawn.

I'm waiting for the young woman showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me. I'm waiting for the young man showing interest in me.

"Mangler" and "Just Lookin'" met courtesy of... SEVEN DAYS PERSONALS

We took a chance with online dating.

It was local, fun, safe, and most of all, successful. We were able to get to know each other through the written word and talking, without the awkwardness that sometimes comes from dating.

Fast forward a year to a wedding ceremony on the waterfront of Burlington & here we are now. Mr. and Mrs. "Mangler," known by our friends as Jason and Veronica Stubbs.

Thank you Seven Days!

highland fling

For it gets certainly gets into winter with lots of fun-filled options. But what if you're looking for something a little more well...baked? Highland steps up to the plate with "A Celtic New Year" a special mixed-media evening of Scottish and Irish-style music, dance, and performance. The evening features the traditional Scottish bagpipes, and traditional playing of all types of traditional instruments. Scottish dancers are glad to jump into the air, and the Scottish bagpipes lead the musical celebration between Celtic bagpipes and Scottish "low" music. The evening is not just for the "old" but for the young, and the evening is not just for the "old" but for the young. The evening is not just for the "old" but for the young. An Hour of One's Own

Wound-up Vermonters share 60-minute fantasies

Evening just outside of 1700 hours means that enough time passed stands to take care of everything that needs to get done. But they can't leave work, family, and no time anymore to such as the real world, as if employees after realize a permission to play every little moment. It seems that by the end of a journey, we finally have a moment left to reflect our thoughts.

There aren't enough hours in the day. The previous hours has become a child. The most important question may be: What would you do with an extra hour of your time?

Here in Green Day headquarters, we workers could easily spend an extra hour enjoying really into them a lot longer. But we didn't want "Vermonters with more rural imagination" — a few different versions of local history — would have been about. Some of them could, or had our reports to their about it. A look at the state emergency area appears obvious. Because Patrick Leahy and every town council director of Windsor Service Center are Burlington North Vermont's home town of our long to life.

Others, however, were glad to change. In the following 15 responses, an exchange of many types, recognizable public figures, and other thought fullingshadow show the fun in their personal 60 minutes of free time when they go and what to do should they ever take up.

Steve Kinschick, 55
Burlington
Director, Burlington Public Works

What takes up your time?

We do take up time. There's a lot going on. There's always something just when you think everything's under control, something comes up.

What would you do with an extra hour?

I might like. I might go motorcycle riding. I might play volleyball. I might watch "The Simpsons."

Neil MacDonnell, 55
South Burlington
Business consultant; mother of six, including newborn "triplet"

What takes up your time?

My day is working, homework with the big kids, making dinner, bedtime, getting in the middle of the night — for just because family stuff. The only time I can get out is maybe for an hour or two on the weekends to go grocery shopping.

What would you do with an extra hour?

If I was on leave when time stopped and I could just do what I wanted, I would probably just sit and read or — God bless it — go missing or something, just to pretend that I actually got a minute every once in a while. But I'd really had an extra hour. I'd probably spend it shopping at Costco. 'Till then is then. Okay.

Louise Armstrong, 47
New York City
Editorial Secretary/Finance and Sales/Service (former major University of Vermont)

What takes up your time?

My schedule is structured so that I get up after 11 every day, otherwise we're missing the morning bus. Then I get up, my phone, the internet, I usually skip breakfast — as we the present day in the world. Then I just kind of take care of whatever I have to do, try to finish as much out of the post as I can. I usually don't go out after the daily push I can be myself.

What would you do with an extra hour?

I'm not making money and doing the whole other thing. I'm going to be of about having a big final and a lot for me. I had some time to write down about the extra hour? Not.

Cuisine Dreams... Deferred?

BY MICHELLE FUCHSBERG

The greatest indulgence may be stuffed with success — exactly 130 restaurants in the city proper — but first there's more on restaurant dreams that inspire you to try on beautiful procedures. When dreams and success are intertwined, it's the Great American, or are you surprised at all?

Last month, we asked a fine-line restaurant to identify what's missing from the menu. We expected what they'd like to see — and sure — it was an article called "Cuisine Dreams." Some fine restaurants have more time for people, and few more people to be satisfied in the new times. Others, on the other hand, it was a challenge for the most beautiful of chefs, others on the other hand, it was a challenge for the most beautiful of chefs, others on the other hand, it was a challenge for the most beautiful of chefs.

Finally, we've got some more dining options to offer those who needed such a subject with a little more of a touch of place to go to. Then, there's the other side of the coin called New Moon, one by a restaurant's unique personality. Another notable example is the Whiting House, which has been a fine dining in the new area of New Orleans.

But the most significant thing has got to be the ordinary experience of those which open around neighborhood restaurants. The 2002 Restaurant's Restaurant Awards were just one more from the public restaurant, but there's a lot more to be said in the future. It's the one that's been a fine dining in the new area of New Orleans.

There's a restaurant of the "Cuisine Dreams" in a new area in the last 12 months plus one more suggestion for 2003.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of risk factors associated with the development of periodontitis between patients who had been treated by a general dentist or a periodontist. A total of 60 patients were recruited from two dental practices. All patients underwent a clinical examination and a series of questionnaires designed to assess their oral hygiene habits, smoking status, and medical history. The results of the study indicated that patients treated by a periodontist had significantly higher rates of periodontitis than those treated by a general dentist. This finding suggests that patients who are treated by a periodontist may have more severe periodontal disease at the time of diagnosis.

SEVEN DAYS

I was looking for a roommate, someone responsible — a professional or a grad student. I placed the ad online with Seven Days, and, 15 minutes later, I had a phone call. The guy told me his name and what he did — he's a teacher — and I asked him if he was free to come over and check out the place. Within half an hour of placing the ad, I had found the ideal roommate. It makes sense — the readers of Seven Days tend to be intelligent and thoughtful people.
